

Third annual community celebration ...

INTERFAITH PRAISES GOD THROUGH ‘GIANTS IN THE FAITH’

“Giants in the Faith” drew 340 people recently to a celebration hosted by Interfaith Community Council to honor those who had influenced someone’s Christian faith. Among the 32 Giants are (in front from left to right) Kris and Todd Applegate and Marilyn Pinaire; and (in back) Ron and Judy Hartman, Jean Baylor, and Janis Hill.

Among the honorees at Interfaith Community Council’s third annual “Giants in the Faith” celebration are (seated from left to right) Randy Bowman, Kathy Hardison, and Glen Burks. Standing are Mary Engleman, Pat Smith, Dennis Brooks, and Tim Hartlage. The 32 Giants, who were submitted by members of the public, represented 17 different churches.

A variety of ways of walking the Christian talk have inspired others and modeled deep faith, according to people who submitted 32 honorees in the recent “Giants in the Faith” celebration. Sponsored by Interfaith Community Council, Giants include (seated from left to right) Andrea Tanner, Harry Harbison, and Terry Proctor. Standing are Angie Reese, Ruth Houghton, Sister Agnes Willhelm, and Bryan Wickens.

A spirit of thanksgiving to God plus Christian fellowship highlighted the third annual “Giants in the Faith” celebration sponsored by Interfaith Community Council. Among those feted for having an impact on someone’s faith were (seated from left to right) Erna McIntyre and Bob and Carolyn Wells; and (standing) Rev. Matt Woods, Bill and Janet Kennedy-Sabala, and Lois Wadsworth.

Christian music framed the celebration that honored 32 people from 17 churches recently, thanks to noted jazz saxophonist Jamey Aebersold, standing on the left, and Todd Hildreth, seated on the left. Among the “Giants in the Faith” who were honored are (standing) Ron Belden and Lisa Hentrup. Seated are leaders of the sponsoring Interfaith Community Council, assistant director Luke McConnell, and executive director Christine Harbeson. For information about Interfaith and its variety of services, call 948-9248.

